Joint Mid-Year Meeting of Training Councils in Psychology

“Assuring Competence in the Next Generation of Psychologists”

One of the great things about the 2010 conference is that NCSPP will have two conferences back to back. The first part of the conference (listed in black) will be NCSPP's usual, but abbreviated, mid-winter conference. The second part of the conference (listed in red) will be the joint conference with the other councils. The focus of the joint meeting will be "Assuring Competence in the Next Generation of Psychologists." The NCSPP portion of the conference will involve the first two days, and the Goals and expected outcomes are listed below.

Goals of the NCSPP Training for Integrated Health Care (IHC) Conference

- To explain integrated health care (IHC) and its growing presence and importance
- To inform program faculty/administrators about the growing need for psychologists skilled in IHC
- To determine how IHC training can become a part of doctoral training in psychology and encourage more programs to incorporate IHC training
- To determine essential elements of an IHC curriculum
- To learn how to develop IHC practica and internships
- To address obstacles to IHC training and employment.
- To learn how to advocate for IHC jobs and funding with local providers and at the state and federal levels and involve more people in these efforts
